

FREE LEVEL THREE WORKSHOP

Making Sense of Voices:

An in-depth case-based workshop for people who work with children & young people who hear voices

OPEN TO PREVIOUS TRAINEES FROM OUR LEVEL 2 COURSES ONLY

ABOUT THIS WORKSHOP

Voice Collective has always offered two levels of training - introductory (level one) and advanced (level two). However, we recognise that - as supporters - we are all constantly developing our skills and understanding.

In response to attendee feedback, we have decided to offer a level three course that builds on the principles outlined in the 'Understanding & Supporting Adolescents who Hear Voices' course.

Unlike our other courses, this workshop will assume prior knowledge and understanding gained from the level two course. As such, places are limited to those who have either

- attended our level two course, or
- have extensive experience in the 'hearing voices network' approach

WORKSHOP AIMS

- ★ Explore ways of supporting young people, and families, to make sense of their voices
- ★ Explore ways of working alongside young people to develop coping strategies that work
- ★ Gain confidence in the use of a range of tools and strategies
- ★ Apply these ideas to real life examples from your own practice

18 MARCH 2013

9.30 - 4.30 PM

Mind in Camden
Barnes House
9-15 Camden Road
London, NW1 9LQ

BOOK YOUR PLACE ONLINE:

W: vc3-march2013.eventbrite.com

For more information,
please contact:

E: info@voicecollective.co.uk

T: Claire/Yan 020 7625 9042 option 4

Funded by:

BBC Children In Need
Comic Relief
City Bridge Trust

Voice Collective is Mind in Camden's London-wide project for children & young people who hear, see or sense things that others don't. For more information, see www.voicecollective.co.uk